WHO WE ARE

THE SURE SELLING SERVICE is a large stock with offices in most of the large cities throughout America. Our business is to buy, sell and exchange all assigned, salvage or bankrupt stocks, buy and sell stocks of merchandise, for the accounts of creditors, to settle estates and partnerships, sell overstocks, etc. We are the world's greatest bargain givers and price cutters paramount in our profession, from the fact that we employ our own copyrighted and patented modern method, which is the master stroke in modern merchandising.

Our perfected method is conceded by people from Coast to Coast to be the standard of strategy in selling. The last word in scientific salesmanship, perfected in every minute detail. We resort to no misrepresentation, deception or trickery, and

Forfeit $1,000 if Everything is Not Exactly as Advertised

All goods sold by us are subject to approval, exchange or your money will be refunded. No "ifs" or "ands," no "catch." Just plain, everyday honest, sound business practices. There is no mystery about our new method--no red tape. It is simplicity, based upon years of experience in the art of selling goods and perfected by men who are specialists in each branch of the merchandising world.

FACTS ABOUT OUR PRICING

When we take charge of a stock of Merchandise, the former selling prices remain on the goods--unaltered. We place our own colored "Sale Price" tickets on all goods, and sale prices are marked in plain blue pencil figuring. The blue pencil prices are your guide--see that you pay no less than our markings for an article than our blue figures indicate. We mark goods at the lowest possible price--much lower at times than the cost of manufacture. That is the reason for some of our markings being made in the odd cents, which necessitates the use of pennies. As a business caution we ask you to pay no attention to false rumors, usually circulated by jealous competitors. But let your own eyes be your judge. Beware of "fake" advertising and misleading signs.

Copyrighted in U.S. and Canada.

AND OUR METHOD

Our original plan is mutually beneficial to consumer and merchant. We are experts on the subject of merchandise and we clean up a stock for the merchant at prices the consumer is willing to pay. Certain conditions at times make it satisfactory to the merchant to sell his goods at a loss to make money quickly. Our store arrangement is an innovation. We put goods in bargain bins to make shopping a pleasure and choosing easy. True, by our policy we slaughter a merchant's prices, as we rely on a volume of business (usually selling as much in ten days as the merchant sells in three months), thereby reducing handling expense to a minimum. All this we do for the consumer's benefit. Your interests are protected and your dollar does more than double duty.

Why Lacombe?

LACOMBE WILL BE THE LARGEST CITY IN CENTRAL ALBERTA

From Edmonton and Calgary, from Saskatoon and Prince Rupert, where the North meets the South and the East meets the West, heart and centre of a country comprising abundant human blessings, there springing into prominence and rapidly rising to prominence lies the coming city of Central Alberta—LACOMBE.

Because it is about to become the terminal point for two great railway systems each coming from the North, from the South, from the East and from the West, besides two others each coming from the East and from the West.

Being at the intersection of these great lines of transportation thus geographically located, LACOMBE must inevitably become an ideal shipping point, and coupled with natural gas and Hydro-Electric Power, surrounded by the most fertile soil on earth, she commands the attention of the manufacturer.

Don't wait until you have to say "I could have bought, etc.," but buy now and have to say "I did—buy and made so much." See

The "Emergency"

A great deal of nonsense has been talked about the "emergency" since Mr. Borden proposed his "emergency" resolution. Critics of the reality of the "emergency" have proven its non-existence with entire satisfaction to themselves by pointing out that a general European war did not follow the attack of the Balkan states upon Turkey. They have said to Mr. Borden in so many words—"You said that there was an 'emergency.' You said that war was coming. Well, war has not come. You tried to deceive the country." Of course, any school boy, who gives two minutes to the subject, sees the fallacy of this contention. Mr. Borden proposed to build three battle-ships to meet an "emergency." Obviously, he could not have meant an "emergency" which was over and done with before his ships could have been laid down.

Other critics escape this booky's blunder, but talk as if the "emergency" were a sort of fever which would reach its climax in 1915, or 1916, and then disappear. Mr. Borden, they say, is hastening to be ready for the climax. That is why he proposes to build his dreadnoughts in England and not in Canada, and why he wants to put these ships at the disposal of the British admiralty. But, as soon as the fever shall have passed, they predict that he will begin to build dreadnoughts, or whatever capital ships are then thought to be best, in Canada, and that he will keep them out here. That is this idea of creating an "British Navy" in they argue, only an "emergency" idea, and as soon as that is over, they look to see him tamely adopt the very Liberal policy he has been denouncing.

In view of this sort of twaddle, it is just as well to try and get clearly before our minds what this "emergency" is. When was it born—how long will it last—and when will it pass? It's birthday is easy to fix. It occurred when the sane and optimistic Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman conceived the notion that there might be something in this "pacifist" contention after all that Great Britain was forcing the pace in naval armaments. Being a sincere and downright man, he at once put this notion into effect by sending a delegation, with disarmament proposals to the Hague conference, and as a guarantee of good faith—reducing the British ship-building program. Germany at once saw and seized her advantage, which synchronized neatly with the creation of the dreadnought and thus gave her a chance to catch up to us in this new type of ship which "scrapped" all others.

Thus, the "emergency" was born. The Canadian Liberals were then in power and it frightened them into taking up the naval question. They did nothing that was any use, but they would have done nothing at all if they had not been "scrapped" into it. The British admiralty, showed its appreciation of the situation by calling home all its effective fighting ships and massing them in front of the German navy. British ship-building programs immediately began to mount, and a certain superiority of capital ships was sought to be maintained in home waters. The story of the development of this "emergency" must by now be very familiar to our readers, as well as the manner in which Canada came into it. Mr. Borden was pledged, prior to the last elections, to "consult the admiralty" if he came into power—and follow its advice. That he did to the letter, and the admiralty is now enabling him to carry out their joint policy, in spite of the pig-headed partnership of the senate.

Of course, what Mr. Borden is doing is helping Britain to meet this continuous "emergency" at the earliest possible date. That is all he could do. But it must be obvious to any man who can subtract forty-five from sixty-five that when sixty-five millions are building battleships with all their might against forty-five millions—the forty-five being temporarily in the lead—the "emergency" thus created tends to become more acute as the numerical superiority of the sixty-five is more felt. Canada's addition of three dreadnoughts to the efforts of the forty-five will help materially, of course, but that is only one single act on our part, and once accomplished, the question arises—Are we going to stay in the race? The "emergency" will go on, and is more likely to increase for the present than to decrease.

Obviously, so long as the "emergency" lasts, we must meet it in the best way we can. And what is the best way? Well, if you desired to know how best to meet an "emergency" which had arisen owing to a break in your plumbing, whom would you consult? A grocer or a plumber? Undoubtedly a plumber, and the best plumber you could find. In the same spirit, when we desire to know how best to meet an "emergency" of naval defence, we consult the best naval experts we can find—the British admiralty. Both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden have consulted this body on this question, and both have got from it the same answer. To Sir Wilfrid, the admiralty said: "The greatest output of strength for a given expenditure is obtained by the maintenance of a single navy. The maximum of power would be gained if all parts of the empire contributed according to their needs and resources to the maintenance of the British navy." To Mr. Borden, the admiralty said: "Naval supremacy is of two kinds—general and local. General naval supremacy consists in the power to defeat in battle and drive from the seas the strongest hostile navy or combination of hostile navies wherever they may be found. It is the general naval supremacy of Great Britain which is the primary safeguard of the security and interests of the great dominions of the Crown."

So much for "how to meet the 'emergency.' How long will the 'emergency' last? That is easy. Until Germany gives up. And the Germans, being a logical race, will probably give up when they see that the overseas sections of the British Empire have rallied effectively to the support of the flag, and that they have to build against—not forty-five millions—but sixty millions, mostly maritime. The sooner we prepare to help meet the "emergency," the sooner will it disappear. But we may be very sure that if we shirk our duty or practically cancel our influence by insisting upon side-tracking our efforts in the slow creation of experimental and coast-bound "local navies," the "emergency" will last and grow more acute until it ends in our overthrow.

That the fact that war did not come last spring did not dispose of the "emergency," nor will any delay in getting our dreadnoughts ready as soon as we hoped, dispose of it—it will remain with us until we have decisively won the race or fatally lost it. And the way to meet it is always the same—augment the hitting power of the "one British navy." A battleship in Australian waters will not meet it—nor would a battleship in British Columbia waters.

STATUTORY SEATS FOR RIVAL LEADERS

Ottawa, July 7.—A proposal which is obtaining considerable attention in the scheme for the creation of a federal district is that Ottawa should provide statutory seats for the leader of the government, the leader of the opposition and the speaker of the house. Workers who desire a federal district formed, are enthusiastic over the idea, and it will likely obtain consideration when the frame work of the scheme is being considered.

It is pointed out that in providing statutory seats as proposed, it would prevent the loss to the country of the leader of the opposition, and save much trouble and expense in new elections, that the views of adherents of the great political creeds would be certain of both championing, and while both leaders would not be elected and theoretically representative, in actual practice the minority would have more representation than it possibly could, or really has, under the present conditions.

As the leaders would have to make their homes in Ottawa, they would know the needs of the city and the capital would not suffer in a civic sense under the commission idea. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been a resident of the capital for 20 years, and Premier Borden for 15 years.

Another point advanced in favor of the idea is that it would mean the placing of the leadership question under the jurisdiction of a commission. Some objections which can be seen at a glance are that the leader of the opposition may be often changed either by vote of his followers or by resignation, and that as far as the capital is concerned, the leaders might hold views or decide on a line of action adverse to the opinions of the citizens of Ottawa. The first point could be got over by making the vacating of his position by the opposition leader automatically work his resignation as a member of the commons. The second objection is against a condition that often occurs even under civic government by aldermen.

EVERY KNOCK A BOOST

That famous Missourian, Champ Clark, is the most recent addition to the advertising staff of the Dominion of Canada. He does not, however, draw any salary from the Canadian government. He is our advertising agent only in so far as "every knock is a boost." Mr. Clark is noted for his readiness in speech, and that practically was the only reason he was not chosen as the Democratic candidate for the last presidential election.

He is most anxious, according to the recent speeches, credited to him, to stop the flow of United States people to Canada. That class of advertising is probably one of the best that Canada can get in the south. The people there will naturally want to know why this rush of United States settlers to the Canadian West and their inquiries will be duly answered. The customs estimator estimates that $123,683,000 is the annual loss to the United States through emigration to Canada. At this rate, what is the United States' loss in certainly Canada's gain.

We should not blame Mr. Clark for being desirous of keeping his country's people at home, but if he ever attempts to stay the tide of immigration or emigration, he will be trying to put a stop to something that has been the experience of all countries and all peoples ever since the world began. In round numbers, the United States has about 100,000,000 people. To this great number all Europe, and even Canada, has contributed generously, so say nothing of the African slave traffic. Some of the old nations of the earth are today wondering where they can get an opening for their emigrants, instead of trying to keep them at home.

The people of the earth have always wandered about, and for that reason we are here today, and Champ Clark is in the United States. What's the use? This is not the place for the distances of people, but it might not be a bad idea for President Wilson, who is an ex-college professor, to give his famous colleague a pointer or two.

EDMONTON'S NEW STOCK PAVILION COMPLETED.

For this year's exhibition at Edmonton, the large stock pavilion will be completed, which will to a large extent make the stock independent of the weather; the judging will take place inside the arena, which is 85x290 feet; the building itself is 195x315 feet, has seating capacity for 5,000 people and stabling for 200 animals. Many other improvements have been made in addition to the completion of this building. The manufacturers' building has been floor with cement, a tunnel has been made under the race track to permit horses to go to and from the stables to the show ring in front of the grandstand without interfering with or being held up by the races. The accommodation for poultry has been doubled, and an entirely new building fitted up for the dairy products and domestic manufacturers. Excursion rates will be in force on all railroads.

U. F. A. NOTES

(From Lakeside U. F. A.)

Attend your U. F. A. meetings. The better to be attended by performance than by pedigree. Put your heart in your work but remember that the most useful man is he who marches in life's procession, yet sits in the grandstand and sees himself go by.

We earnestly believe we are on the right track. We will make mistakes, to be sure, but no man is so wholly right that he can afford to say that another is wholly wrong.

The man who knocks on the knocker of which he is a part, is standing on the chute swathing it with grease. Don't spread a secret until you have first treated it with formalin.

Lakeside Union is taking steps toward instructing, and interesting features in the meetings. A moonlight schedule is all right unless you get home after midnight.

Remember that an organization that is happily married does not scrap in public.

Don't look on every movement with suspicion as if there were a nigger in the woodpile. A nigger is only a colored person who has no money.

The idea that you are enemies is a poison in your system, and like other poison you must eliminate it for a suffer. Don't bother to forgive your supposed enemies—just forget them.

Remember that opportunity is the most persistent knocker. Shake him by the hand and ask him in to tea.

Weather permitting, the picnic on the 11th should be a howling success.

Prove by your presence that your interest is not waning. Just the fellow whom you wanted to see will be there.

Most of us will be glad of the opportunity to try out and inspect the rejuvenated Gull Lake Road and delight in anticipating the stone road for Alberta in the not far distant future.

The joy of living in the Lacombe district is one of the pleasant things to contemplate. Besides the contemplation of this fact, however, you should find time to attend your regular U. F. A. meetings.

Something of interest to you going on all the time. You may not wish to buy anything, neither perhaps have you anything to sell.

Nevertheless, by lending your presence regularly, you contribute your share of interest, stimulating activity. Your enthusiasm should not lag because you think you have no personal interest in this or that particular meeting. Bear in mind that it is yourself who keeps alive the movement for the farmers' welfare.

By attending meetings regularly you keep in touch with your neighbors and continually freshen your mind to his needs and wants. And his needs and wants are identical with yours, though perhaps not always in the same form.

Every member of the U. F. A. should fit himself for the task of "carrying the message to Gaucha." To qualify in this undertaking we must forever and continually keep the goal before our minds. The ultimate goal is not alone the goal of buying for the least money and selling for the most. It is the general uplift that counts in the long run. There are so many vital interests affected by a farmers' alliance that many of them are overlooked in the mad race for dollars. Think of the good we can do by uniting our efforts to better our social conditions, to improve our schools, to build up our roads, to beautify our homes and our acres, and to raise our efficiency in our chosen life-work.

How many of us strain at a gnat and swallow a camel? Each farmer should study and follow out a line of work that stands out particularly and prominently above the similar efforts of some one else. Thus you advertise yourself and your product, you advertise Canada, and particularly do you advertise Lacombe district.

Amid this subject, has it ever occurred to us that we might do a little more work along cooperative lines by actively assisting our local Board of Trade to boom and advertise our district?

This unremitted boosting is going to help someone, surely. And whom will it help more than the land-owner. Our farms are going to be in demand in a few years about that of any other part of Alberta. And you who are here and have been here for years, know the most of all. You cannot find a combination of conditions as favorable as these anywhere.

U. F. A. Picnic

If the weather is favorable the U. F. A. picnic at Gull Lake on Friday next will be well attended. Not only the members of the various associations, and their families, but a great many others will be there. The picnic will be held at the lake, near the Gull Lake road from Lacombe.

A number of the ladies of the Lacombe district, feeling the need of a more convenient and regular means of social intercourse and interchange of opinions are endeavoring to form a Women's Organization for this purpose. The matter will be discussed at the U. F. A. picnic on Friday and the ladies are asked to make it convenient to get together for a short meeting to discuss ways and means.

Other communications from U. F. A. members have been received this week too late for this issue, but will appear next week. We are glad that the U. F. A. has decided to make use of the columns of the Western Globe, and the only suggestion we would make is that they get their letters in as early in the week as possible, to insure publication.

The Lands Department has thrown open five quarter sections of land recently released from Timber Benth 100, for homestead entry, and already several parties are camped on the grounds at Red Deer, holding their places for the opening.

The Dominion Day celebration at this place was well attended and a very enjoyable time was had by those present. The program was pulled off from A to Z. The trap shooting was an interesting affair, with S. Sambrook and Geo. Zehndt for first by a score of 9 birds out of a possible 10. Shooting of the tie with 5 more birds each, they again tied, each taking three more birds. Sambrook came with a 45 out of a possible 18 score. After dinner the Bentley boys picked up a baseball team to give the Rainy Creek team a game, which was won by the latter team, by a score of 10 to 0. There being no visiting team here to meet the local football team, they played off a game, married vs. single, in which the married men came out victors by a 2 to 0 score. The races were held in a very satisfactory manner. The crowd were well attended by several refreshment counters. There was a merry-go-round, shooting gallery, and a variety of other amusements, and all were well patronized. The sports on the grounds were followed by a wrestling match, and then a dance in the hall, the floor being crowded. The entire night was after a delightful manner. The music furnished by Messrs. Yip and Christman was exceptional, good, and everyone seemed well pleased.

Will O'Neill and Will Beckde have conducted a homecoming from the Timber Benth land just opened up west of Bentley. Some local thugs broke into the hall soon after it was locked up on the morning of the 2nd. This aggregation of local thugs have about reached the limit of patience of the respectable citizens, and no further warnings should be needed.

Miss Flora Hansen has taken a position as clerk at "The Ideal" of Gull Lake.

Miss Vera McPherson is confined to the house with the measles. Everybody's doing it. A present writing both Bentley and the Lake are broken, causing a state of affairs that we hope will soon be remedied.

C. F. Damron and James McPherson conducted sales at Peterson's on Thursday last.

The Strathmore Association is sending out an appeal to the Union to join in a campaign to prevent tuberculosis in cattle from being brought into the Province. They say that no far barn very free from this difficulty, and the time to take action is before it gets a foothold. It is much easier to get it out than it would be to get rid of it if it were here. In connection something more might be done to prevent any possibility of hog cholera being introduced here.

The ladies have secured a supply of literature consisting of the Grain Growers' Guide, The Western Home Monthly, Saturday Evening Post, and other magazines for the convenience of those using the rest room, and for distribution.

Mr. H. Palmer, the blacksmith, is the busiest man in town these days.

Mr. J. E. Lundberg went to Lacombe and Stettin on Thursday by train and returned on Friday.

The bridge over the Saskatchewan river has been completed and trains are now busy hauling coal for the extension of the line west of the river.

The mixed train which has been running twice a week will only run once, owing to the number of work trains on the line.

The extension of the line will be completed in about a week, and it is expected that the portion between Stettin and Mountain House will be in operation in a few months.

Many of our citizens celebrated Dominion Day by visiting points. The majority went to Leslieville, where a good program of baseball, horse racing and other sports were carried out.

Peasure Seekers at Gull Lake

Gull Lake, the oldest and most favored of the Central Alberta summer resorts, is growing so rapidly in population during the merry, busy months of the season that the old-time residents are astonished. Five or six years ago there were very few cottages along the fashionable south shore of the lake, comprising the Aspern Beach, West Beach and the Aspern Peninsula. Now residences, small, cozy and comfortable for the most part, are strung along the four or five miles of tree-fringed sands. There are over two hundred cottages in all, many of them erected this season, and the population of the resort at the present time is estimated at two thousand.

Edmonton people were among the first to arrive faith in Gull Lake as a summer resort by buying lots and building cottages. E. C. Emery, of the law firm of Emery, Newell, Ford, Bolton and Mount; F. T. Fisher, secretary of the board of trade; Postmaster A. E. May, have others, have journeyed to the lake with the family every year for eight years, and Justice Stuart, of Calgary, was among the first to follow, their example. At that time fifty-foot lots could be bought at the Lacombe end of the lake for mere song; today, including cottages, they are worth all the way up to two thousand dollars, and very few to be had at that.

The east shore of the lake is about nine miles from Lacombe and autos ply between the two places for $1.25 a head for the single trip, if there are enough heads to make a respectable showing.

The village of Gull Lake, comprising Aspern Beach, West Beach and Aspern Peninsula, on the east and south shores of the lake, was incorporated at the last session of the provincial legislature, and the first election is to be held on the 19th inst. with nominations a week earlier. It is proposed after the election, to make sanitary regulations for the better health of the residents, and it is likely that driving teams along the sands, frequently indulged in at present, will be restricted.

Gull Lake, it may be generally known, is just over twenty miles long, and five or six miles wide, and is a magnificent body of fresh water, that makes the lake appeal so much to campers as it is to absolutely safe for children. An adult may wade out at hundred yards with every degree of safety, and children can be safely allowed to wander out for half a mile, and even to swim in the sandy beach about twenty yards wide surrounds the lake, and children clad in summer garments or bathing suits, like nothing better than to take a bucket and wooden spade and fashion a sand castle that are the joy of childhood.

There are a large number of rowboats and canoes, half-a-dozen gasoline launches, and several sailboats, all privately owned. The Lakeside Hotel Company proposes to install a number of rowboats and one gasoline launch for the use of excursionists at an early date. Bathing is freely indulged in at all hours of the day, the temperature of the water being such as to allow a stay of unlimited length. A bathing-house will likely be erected at an early date.

In the day time the lake, iridescent in the sunlight, with the sailing boats skimming over the surface, and the sounds of the "feathering" of innumerable oars, presents an attractive appearance, but the scene that is of surpassing beauty is at twilight, when the setting sun purples the sky at the western end of the lake, and the faint gleaming of the camp fires light up the shores, the white smatches of merry song are heard from the campers.

Some of the cottages have grotesque names, such as Damocles, Damascus, and Laffalot, and all of them are named in some form or other.

A partial list of the visitors on Saturday and Sunday, and of the campers who are spending the greater part of the summer at the resort, is as follows: Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Day, Lacombe; guests, Miss Caroline Wade and Miss Kathleen Blair, Edmonton; and H. Bowland, Almonte, Ont.

Lake View Hotel

Lake View Hotel, Gull Lake, fine new summer hotel, is now open to the public. Manager George Kinky, well known throughout the west as a thorough hotel man, arrived from Edmonton last week, and the dining tables, etc., and a fine view of the lake, and everything in shape for the accommodation of tourists.

The new hotel is a splendid three-story structure, situated on the south beach, and from the balconies of which is obtained a splendid view of the whole lake. It is furnished throughout in splendid style, and is semi-modern. Forty large airy bedrooms, many of them facing the lake, have been furnished in a manner that will please the most fastidious holiday tourist, who is looking for a place to pass the hot summer days in comfort. Each story of the building has a large open balcony, overlooking the lake.

The whole front of the lower story is occupied by the rotunda, which is furnished with large easy chairs, settees, writing tables, etc., and as a safeguard against chilly evenings, an open fire-place has been provided. The front of the rotunda facing the lake is entirely of glass, affording a grand view of the lake and surrounding country.

The dining room is situated on the west side of the building and is large and roomy, and furnished in a strictly up-to-date style. It is bright and cool, and accommodates about fifty guests.

The entire building is lighted with gas, and water is laid to every flat. As soon as possible water will be laid to every room. The water supply is obtained from a deep well and forced through the building by means of a standpipe.

Manager Kinky will see that the cuisine is all that can be desired, and to this end has secured the services of an experienced chef and able staff of assistants.

The management has also completed arrangements for the entertainment of visitors. Gasolene launches, sailboats and rowboats are at the disposal of guests, while those who desire motorizing will find their wants in this line supplied with first-class cars.

Anyone looking for a delightful place at which to spend the hot summer days in comfort, can do no better than by coming to Gull Lake. Here they will find the best facilities for boating, bathing, motorizing, etc., and in the near future a tennis court and golf links will be provided. The tourist will also find that the cost of the holiday will be less than at any other summer resort in the west which offer lower enjoyments.

Dominion Day

Forty-six years ago the two old Canadas—Upper Canada, now Ontario, and Lower Canada, now Quebec and Nova Scotia and New Brunswick—united to form the Dominion of Canada. When the Confederation, which has since grown to six times its original size, thus entered its life on July 1, 1867, a century had elapsed since the genius and valor of Pitt and Wolfe had placed the British flag over what was termed Canada in the middle of the eighteenth century—an area extending very much further southward than the Canada of today but not so far northward, and less than half-way across the continent, the lands about the Great Lakes and this western country, having been held for France, only by a few scattered posts in the vast wilderness.

By the Treaty of Paris, signed in 1763, four years after Wolfe's victory of Quebec, half of North America was ceded by France to Great Britain, and the French possessions and claims on this continent, excepting only the territory of Louisiana, at the mouth of the Mississippi.
But the Canada of that time was only a small strip of the continent, the Canadian people of that time numbered only about 60,000, gathered chiefly at Quebec, Three Rivers and Montreal and trailed thinly along the shores of the St.
Lawrence and the Richelieu, on their "river lots."

They gladly exchanged French militarism and French paternal despotism, ending in respect for civil and religious liberty under the British flag. They gained the steadfastness of their loyalty to the British flag, by their rejection of the proposals of the revolted Thirteen Colonies, and they proved it again when the war of 1812 broke out, the Legislature of Lower Canada promptly voting $250,000 for the defence of the country, and the people rallying to arms.

It was the intention of British statesmen who set up the two Canadas in 1791, each with its separate system of government, consisting of a governor, an executive council, a legislative council, and an assembly, that they should remain distinct, Lower Canada being French and Upper Canada being English. The two Canadas were often called "English" and "French" Canada.

The idea was that the two Canadas could be governed on their separate systems as securely and with as little trouble as in a single system. But the nineteenth century advanced both the Canadas beyond the scope of a prolonged struggle for British freedom in its entirety and the establishment of the full measure of self-government which was not to be movement in favor of Confederation followed.

It would be easy to pile up statistics showing how the Dominion has grown, but statistics, after all, only tell us the bare bones of a thing. It is better to be in the mind that Canadian development is only well begun.

We are only beginning to realize the vast possibilities of the Dominion's varied natural resources.
We live in a land where the very best that is in life is within the reach of the poorest soil of the soil, if he but seek it and be industrious, capable, and worthy.

Each recurrence of the antiagonism of the past days of the Dominion should strengthen in every Canadian the spirit of Cana-dianism. It should strengthen the resolve to preserve the fortunate conditions of life in this country and keep it free from the taints of old world distinctions of caste and from class antagonisms. It should strengthen the feeling of national unity and concord, and drive out the feelings of sectional aggression, largely the growth of mutual ignorance, which this enemy of Canada, the demagogue, has sought so often to inflame. Demagogues will, no doubt, do in the time to come what demagogues have done in the past in their efforts to make popularity in one section of Canada by seeking to arouse prejudice against another section. It is a satisfactory fact to look back upon in our country's history, that no man has ever attained real or enduring influence in Canada in that way.

No public man can gain and hold the confidence of the Canadian people who does not give proof that he is guided by the conviction that his duty is to devote all his powers to the strengthening of the nation by the strengthening of the spirit of Canadianism, by the maintaining of high institutions, and by the furthering in every way the development of our country's resources. National duty and Imperial duty thus go hand in hand. The strength of the Empire depends on the strength and unity of its parts.

While militarism is a thing which the Canadian people have no use for, they have again and again proved themselves to be of the right stuff of which a citizen soldiery is made. With that and the help of a few people the strength of their country must rest, in the last analysis, upon population and industrial resources. In the Civil War in the United States the North was victorious over the South because its greater resources and better industrial development enabled it to maintain more men in the field, as well as because of the moral enthusiasm created by love of the union and hatred of slavery.

The roots of the national strength of a country lie in the devotion of its people to the maintenance of their free institutions. An Imperialism which is deep founded in patriotism, in love of country, in community of sentiment, in fidelity to the ideals and traditions of the race, is cherished by every Canadian worthy of the name. But some of the proposals advocated sincerely, and earnestly by those who not only do not believe them to be in the best interests of Imperial union, but believe them to be proposals which, if put into operation, would be found to have in fact the effect of Imperial disintegration.

In no year in our country's history have the questions of fundamental importance to the future of the Empire been brought before the attention of the people so forcibly as today. In the year since last Dominion Day. Unquestionably there is more thinking—more attentive, serious thinking—than there has been about these questions of Canada now than ever before, and this is a thing which every true Canadian and true Imperialist has reason to regard with satisfaction.

During the summer months mothers of young children should watch for the signs of all looseness of the bowels.
When given prompt attention may be avoided. Chamberlain's

ONE HUNDRED MILLIONS

WORTH OF CONFIDENCE

Mr. Thomas Shaughnessy announces that the C.P.R. will expend $100,000,000 during the current year on the betterment and extension of their railway and steamship systems.

In a recent statement outlay the company, of course, proceeding from business and not philanthropic motives. It is not their aim particularly to provide work at a time when jobs are not so plentiful as usual, and to afford a market for the manufacturers of materials when orders from other quarters may be less urgent. Their aim is to bring their railway and steamship equipment up to the standard they foresee it will be necessary to meet the growing business of the country.

Just because the company are proceeding from purely business reasons, and are known to be doing so, the influence of this announcement will be great and beneficial. It amounts to a declaration to the world that the C.P.R. have just as strong confidence in the future of Canada in a time of general commercial slackness as in a season of abundant activity; a declaration backed by the very convincing fact that they are to lay out one hundred million dollars in a year of scarce money and dear money in order to accommodate the business they see coming.

LAST SPIKE OF C.N.R.

LINE TO COAST BY 1914

Toronto, July 3.—The new Canadian Northern line from Quebec via Montreal and Ottowa to Port Arthur will be ready for traffic by the time navigation closes this year.
This will take the completed road through to the summit of the Rocky Mountains and British Columbia. The railroad thence to Vancouver will probably be completed two or three months later. The last spike of the transcontinental line will be laid on before the end of 1914.

This important statement announcing the practical completion of another Canadian transcontinental railway was given out by Sir Donald Mann and formed his rejoinder to the proposals for negotiations, which might result in the Government taking over the Canadian Northern system. The transcontinental line will be completed even before Parliament meets and the company expects to keep through traffic in full swing within a year from next month.

"Not a word of truth in it," was Sir Donald's comment on the press report. "We have not approached the Government in the matter, nor has the Government approached us."

Winning, July 3.—"I consider that Canadian securities are gilt edged," said Sir Wm. Mc-Kenney, president of the C.N.R., in speaking of the preference to the recent utterance of Hon.
Payne, when he cast a doubt on the validity of certain Canadian municipalities securities. Sir William arrived in the city tonight on what he termed an administrative trip.

He stated that the ever-increasing population of the towns and cities of Western Canada amply justified any borrowing which he had done in the past. Hon. Mr. Payne could not, so far as he was aware, have any reason to make statements derogatory to Canadian securities. He added, however, that Hon. Mr. Payne had claimed that he had been misrepresented on the subject.

Speaking of the work being done in the West by the C.N.R., he said that by the end of the summer between seven and eight hundred miles of new line would be added to the railway map of the Dominion.
"We expect," he said, "to have the line from coast to coast completed so far as the actual laying of steel is concerned, some time next summer.
I expect that the spike will be driven before the winter of 1914."

Buy it now, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over. Buy it now and be prepared for such an emergency.

THE GOSPEL OF WAR.

We seldom hear in these days a more unkindly gospel than that preached from place to place by our doughty Minister of Defence. We have been wont to hear the things that are the gospel of peace and good-will, good-will to all mankind, peace and good-will to all mankind. But this is the gospel of war. War brings the golden age. It is war that makes nations great and that makes nations strong. The new Colonel Hughes is a very kindly man. He would feel compassion about killing a fly if it became his painful duty.
He has imprinted upon an executive minister. He is only trying to do his duty. He is only trying to do a better one, as a soldier of perfection, as a theo-logist, as a practical relation to his own life. Still what is preached, good or bad enters into the life of the soldier. War life, and so, a very serious matter indeed.

To begin with the most serious consideration dealt with by our war lord, we need not wait for the backing of the latter to get us into a war. Whether we do or do not lead to fight money. We have long had the rough and ready computation that major wars burn up a million dollars a day on either side. If this is true, it will be found, on due research, to be much under the mark. Such a war may make certain factories and foundries and shipyards white. But these are only the purveyors of just for the devil's work. If all who are working in them are producers not of value, but of waste. That two million dollars a day goes to pot. It is the smallest part of the sacrifice, but it is the heart of the matter. Under the capital, and to its full extent it wipes that capital out. It would be curious to hold that two or three hundred million dollars can be burned up, whether in war material, or in the cost of transportation, or what not, and the world's capital not be strengthened by it.

But after all, that is a minor consideration. The world continues to hold over with wealth.
If only it could be so applied as to serve all the world's children. Too much wealth certainly has generally proved a cause of moral decadence with the people that had it. The far greater question is what is the moral effect of war on nations.
It is generally held that in actual operation war involves, in detail, the abrogation of the Ten Commandments. It certainly contradicts all the best rules of life that we have from Heaven. We love our neighbor as we do ourselves and shoot him.
And, even in these days, rapine is over a concomitant of war.
The convulsed crowd of this generation, Colonel Hughes excepted, are the least of the world's armies. It is summed up in General Sherman's phrase "War is hell." As for its effects on the history of nations, one has only to study the conditions of England during and after the Wars of the Roses, or the centuries of national depletion and literary barrenness that in Germany followed the Thirty Years War, to conclude that not only while the life-saps, but for long generations, war is plucking.

What This Sectional Fire-pot Means to You

These are some of the advantages of the Sunshine Furnace. Our agent will be pleased to show you others, or write for booklet.

The "Sunshine" has a straight-sided semi-steel firepot, extra heavily ribbed and made in two sections. The two sections allow for contraction and expansion—which prevents cracking. The heavy ribs and semi-steel give extra strength and added radiating surface. Ashes cannot adhere to the straight sides which assures an all-over clear fire. This means the greatest heat from the fuel consumed.

Estimated crop area for 1913. 2,584,030 acres Final figures crop area, 1912. 2,453,557 "

Expansion is shown in the area under cultivation in the central portion of the province and the hay crop will probably exceed all previous records. The acreage will be very largely increased in the north, where it is expected that the crops will mature quite as early as before and maintain previous records. Reports from the Peace River are extremely optimistic, and it is expected that the harvest there will be ready much in advance of previous years. Fall wheat shows a large decrease throughout the province and flax also shows a decrease. The total crop area for 1913 is estimated at 2,584,030, as compared with 2,453,557 in 1912, an increase of 430,482 acres.

The crop report giving the conditions in the various parts of the province is as follows:

NORTHERN DISTRICT.
After a mild winter the spring opened about one week earlier than usual and seeding operations commenced under very favorable conditions. Cool weather prevailed during May, which retarded the growth of crops somewhat, but the past month has been very favorable. It is now expected that crops will mature quite as early as heretofore and maintain all previous records. The acreage will be largely increased, although mixed farming has become general. The great influx of new settlers during the past two years has extended the crop area in all directions. The reports from the Peace River are extremely optimistic, seeding began early and the weather has been ideal. It is expected that the harvest there will be ready much in advance of previous years.

The heavy rainfall of the present month has been quite general throughout the whole province, perhaps more general than in any previous year. At the present moment there is no dry belt in Alberta.

As predicted last year, the acreage of fall wheat shows a large decrease throughout the province, and will not be much better than half a crop. The acreage in flax also shows a decrease, which is accounted for by the unsatisfactory prices last year.

CENTRAL DISTRICT.
The season opened from a week to ten days later than usual and seeding was accordingly and on account of the lack of warm weather during the month of May, very little growth occurred before the first of June. The conditions during the present month have favored a very rapid growth, and the outlook is very encouraging for a splendid crop. The acreage under cultivation in this district shows expansion, particularly in the southeast portion, where a large number of new settlers have commenced operations.

An increased interest is also manifest in dairying and live stock, particularly in the older settled portions of this district where mixed farming operations have long predominated.

The hay crop in this district will probably exceed most previous records as all indications assure a very large hay harvest and an abundance of feed.

SOUTHERN DISTRICT.
The spring opened very favorable, crop conditions with sufficient moisture in the soil to ensure early germination, but warm weather was somewhat delayed and the upward growth of crops was slow until nearly the middle of May.

During the present month weather conditions have been ideal, plenty of moisture has fallen to assure sufficient growth for a good crop, and in fact the conditions were never more favorable for a successful crop than appear at the present time. On account of the ideal conditions which have prevailed during the past thirty days, the rapid growth has placed all crops in this district somewhat in advance of this date last year, and in many places the outlook assures both an earlier and a better harvest.

A brief analysis of our correspondents' reports show a slight decrease in the acreage under crop in this district, and a marked improvement in cultivation and preparation of the soil.

The larger area being summer fallowed for next spring's crop, the better preparation of the soil is a marked characteristic throughout the whole district, and notwithstanding the generally favorable conditions, increased advancement in the growing crop is noticeable everywhere corresponding to the care exercised in preparing the soil. The result of this is bound to be the adoption of better farming methods throughout the whole district.

An increased interest in dairying and the more intensive method of farming is manifest in the large importation of and demand for dairy cows, and the number of new creameries established during the past year.

There is a decided movement for more and better live stock, more steers were winter fed, and there is a greater demand for hogs and sheep.

The precipitation in the month of June in this district has been about all that could have been desired. Four inches of rain fell during the past 30 days.

If you are a housewife you cannot reasonably hope to be healthy or beautiful by washing dishes, sweeping and doing housework all day, and enervating into bed tired at night. You must get out into the open air and sunlight. If you do this every day and keep your stomach and bowels in good order by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed, you should be some little healthier and beautiful. Experimental Farms
One of the most interesting government bulletins that has been published in recent years is just of the press, namely, "A review of the Dominion experimental farms," from their inception in 1886 up to and including the work of 1912. Experimental farms have become so much a matter of course with the present generation, that it is a little startling to realize that it is only a short time since they were inaugurated, and this bulletin, which may be obtained by application to the department of agriculture at Ottawa, is well worth reading. If for no other reason than to check the methods of cultivation of today with those of 1886, either in the western provinces, where at that time cultivation was only beginning, or in the older provinces of Canada, where cultivation had been carried on for a long time, and the soil was beginning to show a serious depletion of fertility, due mainly to the crude methods of cultivation.

The demand for the experimental farms came really from the need of better systems of cultivation in the older provinces, and the lack of expert knowledge as to what methods of cultivation should be followed in the new. Not the least interesting part of the bulletin is the pictures, showing the advance made in the cultivation of trees and shrubs on the various farms. In the beginning, especially in the west, the newly constructed houses for the superintendents stood out bold and stark on the prairie; now they are surrounded with beautiful groves and clumps of trees and line hedges. If the experimental farms had done nothing else than show the Canadian west how to plant and raise trees, they would have more than repaid all that has ever been spent upon them. But this is only a very small fraction of the work which has been done upon these farms.

The production of new varieties of wheat, such as "Preston" and "Marquis" have revolutionized the growing of these cereals in many parts of the west. Probably the best of all the new varieties that have been worked out by the experimental farms is the Marquis, which, even for the fact that it ripens much earlier and is a heavy yielder, is almost identical with Red Fyfe, the famous No. 1 hard wheat. The recent world competitions for the best hard wheat have been won by two succeeding years with Marquis. While the experiments in producing hybrid wheats have given some extremely early strains of Red Fyfe wheat also.

Another most important work done for the west has been the experimenting in the production of clovers and legumes, of which the most important and probably the most permanently successful is alfalfa.

It is to the experimental farms also that the value of western rye and bromegrass are to be attributed, and also the possibility of growing timothy in the Canadian West. The one point in which experimental farms have at all fallen behind has been in the matter of cattle and horse breeding, less work having been done along these lines than was desirable. However, in this particular new departures are being made now, and no doubt more work of this kind will be done in future, especially in view of the present deep interest being aroused in the matter of the general shortage of live stock, not only in Canada, but throughout the whole of the American continent.

The bulletin is one which every man interested in agriculture should send for and keep on his shelf for reference. Some idea of the gigantic work of the farms is gathered from the fact that during 1912 there were 200,000 letters received at the different experimental farms seeking information.

During the past four years eleven new farms or stations have been added to the original five. Those of course in which the west is most interested are at Rosthern and Scott in Saskatchewan; Lethbridge and Lacombe in Alberta; and Invermay and Sydney in British Columbia. There have also been five sub-stations added—one at Kamloops, B.C., one at Fort Vermilion on the Peace River, and at Fort Smith, Resolution, Providence, and Athabasca on the Landing.

The farms have been extremely fortunate in its directors. The first director, Mr. Wm. Saunders, had the gift of selecting men of ability to undertake the work, and for years enjoyed the assistance of James Fletcher as botanist, and a meteorologist. Many of the staff have been with the farms almost since their inception, and in this way the new men coming in have had the advantage of the inspiration and experience of the men who have devoted years to the work.

Fruit Growing at Lacombe

It is time that more of the people in the district realized that fruit growing here is not a possibility, but a reality. Not only may it be grown, but it is being grown, and the present season promises to be the most successful yet experienced.

Two conditions have hitherto worked against fruit growing here, viz: the wet and cold years during the early settlement of the district, and the differences in the mode of cultivation and of varieties that thrive best here as compared with the former homes of many of our farmers.

A considerable number of the farmers in the district came in between the years, 1896 and 1903. These years were very wet and comparatively cold. As a result many kinds of fruit did not do well. A series of poor years in the district, and in every fruit belt, but coming at the beginning of the residence here of a large percentage of the people, it was taken for granted that this was the normal condition. There had never before been such a period since there were white men in Alberta, and the years since then have certainly been very different. Where would you get more ideal weather for fruit than the present season? It is time to shake off the blindness caused by unfavorable weather a few years ago.

Owing to the difference in the climate, the mode of cultivation here must differ from other places, and the kinds and varieties of fruit that will grow the best here, differ from those that are most in favor in some places. All this calls for extensive experimenting, and in addition to valuable work in this line being done by private parties, the Government Experimental Farm here is doing splendid work.

So far it has been positively proven that a number of different kinds of fruit do so well here that it is not necessary to pay fancy prices for fruit lands elsewhere in order to make money growing fruit. Not only may each farmer have plenty of fruit for his own table at small cost, but as a commercial enterprise it offers great inducements. An Edmonton merchant a few years ago exposed for sale in his window two lots of strawberries, one the best B. C. berries available, on which he placed a price of twenty cents per box. Beside them he placed Alberta-grown berries with the price announced as thirty cents, but the latter, owing to superior quality, had the more ready sale. Comparing the two, the land on which the Alberta berries were grown would sell for about one-tenth the selling price of the B. C. land. The cost of cultivation was less, the transportation very much less, but the price obtained on the retail market was fifty per cent. greater. And strawberries can be grown here in almost unlimited quantities.

What is true of strawberries applies equally to raspberries and currants. Apples, plums and cherries are grown to some extent, but although they will yet reach that stage, they are not yet a commercial proposition. The different kinds of berries and currants offer great profit as soon as we can forget how we grew them "back home" and learn how to grow them at Lacombe. It is used to be the fashion to ridicule a certain class of people who came here knowing it all and telling all about how to do things, instead of adapting themselves to the new country. This applies to a great many in growing fruit. They have tried it as they did in a former field, and failed. Those who wish to grow fruit had better pause, in their haste the notice "Fruit can be grown at Lacombe in abundance, but you must grow it the Alberta way."

There is another class of fruit that is hardly suited to the farm as it needs some protection, that has great inducements to offer to those who will make a business of it. Tomatoes, cucumbers and other vine fruits can easily be grown, but only under certain conditions that entail some expense will they prove a success every year. The great price to be obtained more than offsets the expense, but it is not a business adapted to the life of the busy farmer. But the man who can give it the proper attention will find a small fortune in growing vine fruits under cotton.

Every home where there is room for even a garden may have a supply of home-grown fruit, and it is high time our citizens appreciated this privilege much more than they do. Those who wish another source of income will find a val-

Ponoka News

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Arthur Sayers on Wednesday, June 24, when his niece, Miss Maggie Sayers, was married to Wm. Mullins. The young couple live in the Earlville district, where they have many friends who will extend congratulations.

The annual court of revision was held in the town hall on Friday, and proved a very interesting day for those who attended. Mayor Reed presided, and was supported by Councilmen Pindleton, Webster, Ross, Alexander, and Sigerstrom. Over forty appeals were heard in all, and while in one or two cases, reduction were granted, the vast majority were allowed to stand as placed by the assessor.

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place in town Monday, when Laurie M., oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McKelvey, was married to C. B. Kyle. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Wheeler in the presence of immediate relatives and a few friends. The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Grace; Alex. McGilivray was best man. The young couple left by the afternoon train for Banff, where the honeymoon will be spent. Thursday evening a very distressing accident befell Ernest, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. James Jones. Along with other children, he was playing on the railway tracks, near the stockyards, and a freight train being shunted at the time, the little fellow, through some unaccountable way, got caught in a wheel of the locomotive severing his leg at the ankle. He was hurriedly carried to the doctor's office, where the leg was dressed, and in the morning was taken to Red Deer hospital.

Castor News

An amateur boxing contest was pulled off a few days ago in one of the local livery stables belonging to Sid Ellergott and Cliff Maynard. It was finished in five rounds and pronounced a draw, with E. J. Keeser as judge. A preliminary bout was put on by Ernie Ricketts and W. Gorkie before a small audience of local sports.

W. A. Parker, local manager of the Royal Bank, left on Friday morning last for Edmonton, where for the next four weeks he will substitute for the manager of the Edmonton branch, and expects to be absent from Castor until September.

A very representative gathering convened at the Poken Theatre the other afternoon with the object of reorganizing the town band. A. H. Garvie was first voted to the chair, and then the regular election of officers took place, resulting in the appointment of A. H. Garvie as president; Ted Feltown, secretary-treasurer; R. Loach, leader and manager.

Word was received in Castor on Saturday last to the effect that Peter Jensen, a homesteader, residing on Sec. 7-27-03 in the Garden Plain district, and about 32 miles from Castor, had been found dead in his shack. It appears from the evidence of John Boleman, who is his nearest neighbor, that he had last seen the deceased at his (Jensen's) place on Friday morning last, and made arrangements to call for him in the evening to have him stop at his house for a few days as he was feeling unwell, and did not see him again until the hour appointed, when he found him in his bed, clothed by his bedside quite dead.
